RETURN TO OPEN SESSION

II. USC Columbia

Chair Moody called on Provost Gabel to present the USC Columbia agenda items.

A. Establish the William Arthur Fairey II Endowed History Professorship in the College of Arts and Sciences

Provost Gabel reported the purpose of the proposed chair position is to recruit or retain an outstanding professor in the History Department. The criteria established by the gift agreement outlines that the recipient be USC Columbia department faculty member suitable for appointment as full professor who is nationally and internationally recognized as a leading scholar as well as an excellent teacher. The professorship will be fully funded per the gift agreement by the estate of William Arthur Fairey II. The term of the professorship is three years but will be renewable according to university policies and will include a stipend of $10,000 annually.

Chair Moody called for a motion to recommend approval by the full Board of the proposed William Arthur Fairey II Endowed History Professorship in the College of Arts and Sciences, as presented and described in the materials posted on the Board Portal. Mr. Hubbard so moved and Dr. Floyd seconded the motion. The vote was taken and the motion carried.

B. Program Modification – College of Education

— Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT) in Elementary Education

Ms. Gabel said the College of Education is proposing a program modification to reduce the number of credit hours in the MAT in Elementary Education from 51 to 33, which will allow students to complete the degree requirements in one year. She explained MAT programs are intended for students who have already completed a bachelor's degree in another field that did not lead to teacher certification and serve as a pipeline program to develop the pool of candidates who are licensed to teach.

Through a curriculum audit and peer program assessment, it was noted by the College of Education that there was content overlap in several courses and peer elementary education programs had less credit hours ranging from 30-48 credit hours. This modification will put the degree program more in line with peers while continuing to provide MAT teacher candidates with the necessary skills to be successful in the classroom through innovative teaching approaches such as embedded methods coursework, which meet in elementary school settings and are co-led by university-based education faculty and school-based educators. A cohort of 14-15 students is expected to begin each summer semester. The expected start date is May 2020 and no new faculty or resources will be needed.

Chair Moody called for a motion to recommend approval by the full Board of the proposed program modification to the MAT in Elementary Education in the College of Education, as presented and described in the materials posted on the Board Portal. Ms. Newton so moved and Mr. Adams seconded the motion. The vote was taken and the motion carried.

Trustee Spearman commended Provost Gabel and Dean Pedersen for addressing this issue noting it was important to offer quality programs without redundancy. This effort, she said, would help South Carolina in the tremendous crisis it faces to provide high-quality teachers in every one of its classrooms.

C. New Centers: College of Education

1. Center for the Education and Equity of African American Students

Provost Gabel reported that the College of Education proposes to establish the Center for the Education and Equity of African American Students (CEEAS). The mission of the Center is to focus on the academic achievement gap in this group. The CEEAS is expected to engage in a highly collaborative way with P-12 education and become an epicenter of forward-thinking research on what it means to successfully educate the African American student population. There are 26 faculty members at the University who are committed to affiliate with this proposed center, as well as faculty across the country who have expressed interest in serving as affiliate faculty. The Center will be under the exceptional leadership of University faculty members Dr. Gloria Boutte, Executive Director, and Dr. Jennifer Reed, Director.

The CEEAAS will receive funding for the first three years from the College of Education while Center personnel seek funding from other sources (state, federal, foundation, etc.). Beginning fiscal year 2021-2022, the Center will be responsible for generating 100% of the funding necessary to support the staffing, operation and activities of the Center (with the exception of the Executive Director's and Director's faculty base salary, which will continue to be funded by the College of Education).

Chair Moody called for a motion to recommend approval by the full Board of the proposed Center for the Education and Equity of African American Students as presented and described in the materials posted on the Board Portal. Dr. Floyd so moved and Mr. Mobley seconded the motion. The vote was taken and the motion carried.

Trustee Spearman said this was a critical area and thanked the University Leadership for taking on this responsibility.

2. Center for Innovation in Higher Education

Provost Gabel said the mission of the proposed center is to bring a multidisciplinary perspective to complex social, political, and economic issues in higher education today. The center will be a hub that focuses on innovative practices in higher education around topics such as: best practices for higher education leadership, successful college outreach programs, and building collaborative partnerships. Exceptional University faculty leading the Center will be Dr. Rose Ylimaki, Executive Director and Dr. Simone Gause, Research Associate Director who already have some grant funding flowing in and therefore; do not require any start-up support for the proposed center.

Chair Moody called for a motion to recommend approval by the full Board of the proposed new Center as presented and described in the materials posted on the Board Portal. Mr. Hubbard so moved and Ms. Newton seconded the motion. The vote was taken and the motion carried.

Trustee Spearman applauded this initiative saying quality leadership can make or break a school system and this Center would develop better leaders in education, which is a need in South Carolina.

In response to a question by Mr. Wright, Provost Gabel agreed the two proposed centers could and would work together to improve educational outcomes of African American students not only in K-12 education but in higher education as well, with a particular focus on African American males who as a group have the lowest graduation rate at the University.
